Dominic J. Rossi, Esquire, a graduate of Temple University and Temple University School of Law, is a 31 year employee of the First Judicial District of Pennsylvania with experience in all Divisions of the Court of Common Pleas, Family, Orphans' and Trial Divisions.

Dominic is the Coordinator for the Civil Mental Health Program, and in 2001 led the team which adopted the Civil Mental Health Electronic Filing System, a paperless electronic filing and case management system which facilitates the electronic filing, scheduling, and disposing, on a yearly basis, approximately 5500 civil mental health petitions in Philadelphia County.

Dominic has been a member of the FJD's in-house staff which designed and implemented the FJD's Orphans' Court, Civil and Criminal Electronic Filing Systems.

Dominic was appointed Deputy Court Administrator, Legal Services, in 1999 and his responsibilities include drafting local rules for the FJD, providing support and advice to the Court Administrator, his fellow Deputy Court Administrator, and FJD judicial leaders.

Dominic has been a Member of the Pennsylvania Association of Court Management since 2000, served on its Board as Eastern Regional Director and in 2013 was elected Vice-President. He is also a member of the statewide Trial and Appellate Court Public Access Workgroup tasked by the Administrative Office of Pennsylvania Courts with reviewing current public access law, policies and forms and recommend necessary changes designed to provide the greatest access possible to the general public while safeguarding the safety and privacy interests of parties involved in various court proceedings.
